"I never met with any to do its work so thoroughly as yours; it left the wool soft, silky and glossy, and in one week they had gained flesh and looked so well in the wool." Thos. Rowerson, Fishoft, Lincolnshire.
"I think it better than any I have used before. It will pay well to use it. The sheep are all the better, and the wool is much improved." O. Sneyd, Hosa, Lincolnshire.
"I have dipped thousands of sheep in non-poisonous dip. I never saw a poisonous one like Gillard's the best." J. Blandy, Ho-veringham, Nottinghamshire, in letter to The Fields.
Gillard's Sheep Dip is certainly the best it appears to have helped the growth of wool greatly. I shall be very glad to recommend it as wide as I can." A. Thome, Chapel Hill, York.
By using GILLARD'S SHEEP DIP the Nil falli'demum nil veri non audiam dicere.

Cicero.
FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1881.
PATAGONES.

There is no part of this Republic that promises a quicker development than Patagones: with a fine sea-coast, good harbors, splendid rivers and a rich back country, this neglected territory possesses every element essential to the prosperity of the European. The valley of the Rio Negro is destined at no distant epoch to be the granary of the River Plate; the farmers have no locusts and no drought to contend with, whilst the periodical floods of the Rio Negro supply a natural irrigation that invites farmers to settle on its banks.

So very little is known of the Rio Negro and Patagones that we welcome the report of Governor Alvaro Barros, and readily make room for it in our columns. Within the last year a very strong movement has set in for the far South, and many of our readers may be surprised to learn that an Englishman who called at Mr. Rom's office yesterday, to buy some lands on the north bank of the Rio Negro, found that, with the exception of one lot of 4 leagues some 40 leagues west of the town of Patagones, there was not an inch of land to be sold. German merchants names figure on the map as owners up to Choele-Choele, and in front of that beautiful Island some 10 leagues are for sale, for which $45,000 per league is asked, and the owners are in no hurry whatever to sell.

It is a remarkable fact that many years ago the late Canon Fahey strongly recommended the Rio Negro as one of the best localities for Irish farmers and Irish emigration, but, owing to the neglect of the Buenos Ayres Government, the settling along that river was all but impossible, through the constant incursions of the Indians. A few hardy Scotch and Welsh men their stand there and to-day are rich men. Even some Paraguayan prisoners, sent down there during the war, pushed their way up from peon to puestero and thence to estanciero, and to-day are rich and comfortable. This coming summer, we believe, hundreds will take a run down to the Rio Negro to see what the camps are like, and five years hence, we believe, there will be saladeros at Ba-hia Blanca, San Blas, and Patago-nes, as the cattle down there do splendidly.

The following is Governor Barros's report. We have no doubt it will be read with interest by a very large number of our subscribers:— As Governor of Patagonia, by superior decree of the 21st October 1870, I present to your Excellency a report of the works begun and terminated and of the projects submitted for the consideration of the Government.

Owing to the inevitable want of communication with the settlements of Chubut and Santa Cruz, the intervening desert and lack of water, my studies of the country around have been limited to my means of action. In 1870 I had occasion already to submit to the Minister of War a lengthy report on the conditions of the soil, its natural resources, and on the best means to advance the territory. But owing to the military operations of that period many of my observations have passed unnoticed.

As then, I now insist on the necessity of colonizing the territory.
A century ago the first settlement was established in the valley of the Rio Negro. Instead of attending to the wants of this embryonic enterprise, further settlements were founded, far apart, on the coast.
The latter rapidly disappeared, and Patagones, some way or another, managed to maintain a position.
These precedents warn the present Government against any attempt to establish colonies far apart on the coast, whilst the valley of the Rio Negro is especially suited for any purpose of the kind as regards agriculture, cattle and sheepfarming, and has natural advantages. The extensive lands of the valley are untilled and scarcely populated, only awaiting the labour of thousands of immigrants. Such an event would make the valley immediately a centre of production, industry and wealth.

The new little town of Videma on the river, forms already a nucleus of settlers; and it would suit the interests of the Government to foment the new settlement. Videma promises to be the basis of all other colonies on the river, and it is better for the Government to exercise its influence in this district before hazardous attempts which may meet with the fate of the old Spanish settlements on the South Coast.

There is not the slightest doubt that Choele-Choele and Santa Cruz are strategic points of the greatest importance; but this fact does not answer for their facilities for colonization. Colonies only follow in the rear of military diversions: they should never be united if success is aimed at. Before the frontiers come to be settled on, the desert behind the soldiers must be populated.

Obedying my convictions, I tried to facilitate the landing of produce at Videma. Commander Wisoski, who superintended the surveys, will present to V. E. the plans and budget of the works. Meanwhile, earthworks have been thrown up, 200 metres long, 8 metres width and 1 high, which will be sufficient even in the greatest inundations.

Since I first assumed office the settlements have stretched thirty leagues further out, twenty brick houses have been built and three schools started in Videma, San Javier and Guardia Mitre, attended by 168 children. The plans of the chacaras and quintas have been completed. A registry is kept of all the properties, whilst the census, gives a population of 2,716 souls, not including the groups of Indians in the colony General Conesa. The latter colony was founded in 1879 with the remains of Quisque Oatriel's tribe: in all, one thousand Indians.
Small-pox is now afflicting them.

Three leagues beyond San Javier twenty enterprising Italians, started on their own account a few years ago, and to-day they are very well off, thanks to their energy and the advantages of the soil. This single fact shows what European immigrants could achieve in the valley.
These few items, Monsieur le Ministre, I hope will call your attention to the prospects of the Rio Negro. The valley offers two great advantages: fertility of soil and fluvial communication—and two great disadvantages— inundations, which can find no outlet, and the bar of the river. Regarding the first disadvantage, I refer to Engineer Ebelot's report on the matter. As regards the bar, at high tide there is fifteen feet of water, but the waves often reduce it three or four feet.

As regards the great harbour on these coasts, the Puerto San Antonio, Commander Wisoski's account of his expedition will be found most interesting. The great disadvantage of the harbour has always been the utter want of suitable water. But Colonel Gaerney, Fitzroy and Commander Wisoski, confidently assert that same can be had by excavations. The latter officer, in his expedition, reached the aquiferous strata, but could not reach the liquid, as he did not possess the necessary utensils to remove the hard tressa, which was impregnated with fresh water.
It is absolutely necessary that the Government organize an expedition, under Commander Wisoski, to solve the question. The expedition must be well organized and thoroughly equipped.

The colonization of Patagonia, furthermore, must embrace agriculture, cattle and sheepfarming and maritime settlements. Colonies can only thrive on the banks of rivers near the seacoast. The valley of the Rio Negro is well suited for this purpose. The meridional districts of the Rio Negro can be adapted to cattle grazing and sheepfarming, where the animals can find magnificent camps to "invacar."

I do not think it necessary to point to the necessity of facilitating the navigation of the river. The steamers, specially constructed for the navigation, answer the purpose well, and will meet all wants for some time to come.

I beg to hand you herewith the reports of the engineers, Commader Wisoski, Captain Fitzroy and Ebelot, and of the land surveyors Diaz and Hensser.

A photograph of a large, dark blue, textured surface, possibly a book cover or a piece of fabric, with a lighter, possibly white or cream-colored, border at the top. The texture of the blue surface is highly detailed, showing a repeating pattern of small, raised, diamond-like shapes. The top border is a solid, light-colored strip. The overall image is somewhat grainy and has a vintage feel.
